Off the Bimah

Days of Remembrance by Rabbi Jack Dermer

Dear Friends,

The end of the month of May includes two observances which, while modern additions to the Jewish calendar, are among the most important for us to reflect upon.

Yom HaShoah, our day for remembering the horrors of the Holocaust, is marked each year on the Hebrew date of the 27th of Nissan, corresponding this year to Wednesday, April 23rd. This date was selected, after some debate amongst Rabbis, because it marks the Warsaw Ghetto Uprising, and is a date which signified Jewish strength and resilience rather than victimhood. In the land of Israel and all over the world, Jews pause on this solemn day to remember the evil and the hatred, the strength and the heroes who came to our aid, the stories and the names of all those innocents whose lives were stolen.

Yom HaAtzmaut, Israel's Independence Day, comes one week later, on Wednesday, April 30th. Just one week after the sadness of Yom HaShoah, our spirits are lifted by the reality and the miracle of the modern state of Israel, with prayers that the land will forever remain a bastion of safety and security, blessing and pride, democracy and progress, for the Jewish people and our world.

The philosopher Santayana wrote, "Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it." Yom HaShoah and Yom HaAtzmaut are days which tell a story, the story of the Jewish people in the 20th century, a story of unbearable trial and a story of miraculous deliverance. We remember our story and we feel close to it, with prayers that the next generation of Jews will find meaning and purpose in our observance of these spring remembrances for generations to come.

We are stronger together. That's why this year, we have arranged to partner with our friends at the Shelter Rock Jewish Center for both our Yom HaShoah and Yom HaAtzmaut observances. On Wednesday, April 23rd, we will join together at Shelter Rock JC for a Yom HaShoah program at 7 p.m. which will include a screening of the documentary "My Underground

Shavuot, Yizkor and Giving Back by Cantor Scott Sokol

I'd like to use this month's column to talk about an interesting linkage between the holiday of Shavuot and our practice of honoring the memory of those who have passed away, through the service of Yizkor. As we'll see, the linkage between these two topics has a lot to do with giving back.

During the time that the Temple stood, the holiday of Shavuot was celebrated by Jewish pilgrims coming to the Temple to bring bikurim, that is first fruits. Bringing first fruits to the Temple meant choosing among our first and best crops, and giving them over as a "sacrifice" to the Priests in the Temple and by extension to God. You can imagine that after waiting all year for your crop to grow and yield produce, it would be hard to give any of it up (least of all the very first produce). That is why it was a "sacrifice." The practice reminded us that as hard as we might have had to work to get our fields to produce a crop, ultimately that yield and those fields belong to God, and that it was through God's grace that we were able to partake of any of it.

The practice of bikurim though was also linked in an important way to charity around the time of the Three Festivals. As it states in Deuteronomy, Chapter 16:

Three times in a year shall they [i.e., the Children of Israel] appear before the Lord your God in the place which He shall choose; in the Feast of Unleavened Bread, and in the Feast of Weeks, and in the Feast of Booths; and they shall not appear before the Lord empty-handed; Every person shall give as s/he is able, according to the blessing of the Lord your God which He has given you.

Thus, we see that part of our celebration of the Three Festivals was to give back to the broader community as an act of charity and thanksgiving. How is this, though, related to Yizkor?

The original practice associated with Yizkor was only to recite the special service on Yom Kippur. This is because "yom hakippurim" ("the day of atonements" – plural), was thought to effect atonement for both the

Press from Our Leaders

Press from the President
by Ken Maltz, President

It is the job of a synagogue president to function as the chief executive officer of the organization; to manage a diverse agenda which includes the functioning of all synagogue departments, personnel, and services.

Fortunately for us at Temple Beth Torah, we have a competent and dedicated group of members who make up our Boards and carry out their functions in a manner that serves us well. I do not have to worry about them fulfilling their responsibilities.

What keeps me up at night is the proverbial gorilla in the room: what does our future as a fully functioning, vibrant congregation look like? In the face of declining numbers and changing demographics, how do we sustain our membership levels and even dare to increase them?

All the other activities we carry out are going well; and when there is a problem, we usually know how to resolve the issues; but this question is the central challenge that we are facing.

And, by the way, it's not just us who face this dilemma. Houses of worship across several faiths are seeing their membership levels decrease for a variety of reasons; most of which are already too familiar to us.

But we are not without help: The United Synagogue of Conservative Judaism (USCJ) offers many symposiums, workshops and activities for synagogue executives, in an effort to provide assistance to those of us who occupy leadership roles in our congregations, and I have found these offerings to be helpful in confronting that gorilla. Unfortunately, no one has yet to come up with a surefire method to solve the big question. It is up to us to think creatively and try out (read: experiment with) new ways to bring people on board.

During the next few months, we will be putting our heads together and trying a variety of strategies to overcome the apathy that exists amongst our fellow Long Island Jews; 70% of whom remain unaffiliated, while only 30% maintain a membership in a synagogue.

I think we can do better.

RAYS of this + that!

Our condolences to the Mohr family on the passing of Esther Mohr, mother of Ian (Michelle), and Pamela, grandmother of Drew.

Our condolences to the Damon family on the passing of Mark Damon, father of David, father-in-law of Ruth, grandfather of Matthew (Ali) and Amanda.

Our condolences to the Polner family on the passing of Sheldon Polner, husband of Florine, brother of Gloria Rosenfeld, father of Kira, David (Heather), and Heather (Eric), and grandfather of Aliyah, Brianna, Ella, Bryn, and Remi.

living and the deceased. How do we effect the atonement of the deceased? Through acts of lovingkindness and specifically charity. Based on another verse in Deuteronomy, 21:8, which speaks of atonement and redemption, the practice during Yizkor was to remember the deceased by pledging charity on their behalf. Therefore, the act of giving charity, is both an integral part of the atonement process and an important theme of the prayer Yizkor.

Yizkor was extended from Yom Kippur alone to the Three Festivals, because of the citation above about not appearing empty-handed on the Shalosh Regalim. In this way, one of the most important tenets of Judaism, namely tzedakah or charity, becomes linked in our minds and hearts to those we loved on these festive occasions. Thus, we remember our departed through kindness and positive acts for the living.

In modern times, although we no longer make sacrifices to the Kohanim at the Temple, we still can and should remember those we loved by linking their names and memories to present acts of charity and lovingkindness.

So may I suggest that this Shavuot, when you are making your blintz soufflés and other delicious dairy products, why not donate an extra one to a food pantry or better yet perhaps make a donation to Mazon: A Jewish Response to Hunger in honor of a loved one? In this way, you can carry on the tradition of bikurim and tzedakah while celebrating the Festival of Shavuot.

Mother” and a discussion with filmmaker Marisa Fox. The film centers around Marisa’s search for her late mother’s Holocaust past, highlighting a secret diary from a Jewish Women’s camp during the war. Then on Wednesday, April 30th, our SRJC friends will join us at Temple Beth Torah for our Yom HaAtzmaut Celebration, also at 7 p.m., which we are calling “Songs of Israel.” This gathering will feature the Cantors sharing famous Israeli music through the decades, followed by a big celebration with dancing, L’Chayims, Israeli snacks and more.

As we enter into this important season on our Jewish calendar, may we feel close to our Jewish history, and empowered by our Jewish story.

Craft Events: Temple Beth Torah would like to thank our Sisterhood for hosting a two-part Passover matzah cover craft night in March. Participants were able to tie dye their covers and then stencil and embellish them. In April, we hosted a daytime guided Hamsa sip and paint event that was enjoyed by all.

TBT Continues to Support IDF Soldiers with Terri's Angels, by Carolyn Newman: On Sunday, March 23, there were over 30 members who stuffed duffel bags with supplies for the IDF. Much wanted and needed notes and cards were written for the soldiers as well. Conversation, laughter and a sense of fulfillment filled the social hall. Thank you to Terri's Angels and to our volunteers and donors.

Pizza and Parsha: The Pizza and Parsha series continued on Thursday, April 3 at Temple Beth Torah. Participants are able to learn Torah with four local Rabbis (including Rabbi Dermer), enjoy kosher pizza and strengthen the Long Island Jewish community.

Jewish Genealogy Event: On Tuesday, March 25, we were joined by Nolan Altman, President of the Jewish Genealogy Society of Long Island, who discussed the challenges and advantages of investigating your family history as well as common Jewish genealogical myths.

TBT Presents: An Afternoon of Song and Celebration: On Sunday, March 30, we were thrilled to present A Threefold Concert: An Afternoon Concert with the Three Jewish Baritones, featuring Brian B. Shamash (Lyric Baritone), Scott M. Sokol (Baritone), and Benjamin R. Sokol (Bass-Baritone). The three baritones were accompanied by pianist Scott Stein as well as special musical guests Francene Sokol, Jill and Larry Sandberg, Ken Maltz and Zoe Rabinowitz. The reception was sponsored by Alice and Irwin Scharf in memory of their parents, Frances and Joseph Eindelberg and Molly and Sol Scharf. We thank them for their sponsorship, and we would also like to thank our volunteers for all of their help.
